

It is the duty of the FCC to protect and promote a free and independent public media. To allow greater concentration of media control would be a gross abdication of that duty.